ONE CENT

STORE ENTERED; FORMER MANAGER ADMITS GUILT

Would-be Burglars Operate at McCrorey
Five and Ten

GOLD WATCH TAKEN

Arrest Made of Man as Suspicious Character Proves Important

In what was plainly an effort to secure money the five and ten cent store of J. G. McCrorey and Co., in the Night building on Fifth street was entered shortly before midnight Thursday. A watch was taken and that was all. Today lunching in the borough lockup is H. B. Harvey, the first manager of the local McCrorey store self-confessed as an accessory to the crime. Another man who furnished the capital for the criminal venture and who according to Harvey helped out in what looting was done, left town just a short time before midnight. Harvey was arrested shortly after midnight and this morning connected up with the crime through means of a finger print system loaned to Chief of Police C. W. Albright by a local bank.

Harvey's story tells practically the entire story. When he was transferred from Charleroi some months after the store had been opened, he took with him keys that had been used here. One of them was for a back door opening from the alley. In August, Mr. Harvey left the J. G. McCrorey company. Since that time he had been looking for employment without success.

Thursday in Pittsburgh he was waiting at the Pittsburgh Employment Bureau for something to turn up, when in came a man. They had seats together, and in some way the talk drifted towards a means of getting some money. Harvey had left a wife and child in Dunbar and they were in need. The man had some money, so it was arranged that they would come to Charleroi to enter and rob the local five and ten cent store. He agreed to pay Harvey's way. They traveled to Monaca and then late in the evening came to Charleroi. They watched until Manager F. D. White and Mrs. White left the store at about 10:30 o'clock the door and went to the back, unlocked the door and went in. Not finding a thing but Mr. White's watch, they departed. The stranger left but refused to pay Harvey's way out of town, evidently on the assumption that Harvey had engineered a bad deal.

Harvey kept the watch. That was about all there was to tell, except that Harvey was arrested and practically forced into a confession by the array of evidence against him. He had the watch, and that helped towards his undoing.

What action will be taken remains to be learned. Manager White of the store has taken up the matter of procedure with the firm at New York city and upon their instructions will hinge his action. It is likely that information will be made against Harvey.

Harvey says it is the first time he has been in trouble of the kind. He

Egg is 25 Years Old

Charleroi Man Has Unique Object—Shows No Sign of Infirmary

A hen egg 25 years old and showing no evidences of infirmity is a unique object possessed by John W. Schlotter of Seventh street and McKean avenue. Mr. Schlotter has had the egg practically since its conception and states now he would not take a large sum for it. He prizes it in much the same sense that another man would prize an heirloom and will keep the egg in its present condition as long as the egg betokeners a willingness to be kept. The egg, being an Easter egg is painted. Whether that served any purpose in maintaining it in a perfect state of preservation or not is not known, but the fact that the egg has withstood the ravages of 25 years is unusual.

JUDGESHIP WILL GO TO HENDERSON

Meadville Man Leads in State Vote for Superior Court—
Heavy Vote Cast

As a result of the many local fights at the primaries Tuesday and the subsequent hurry to get the vote announced for these officers the important question of candidates to the Superior court were sidetracked. This makes it impossible to yet tell who received the nominations. Judge John J. Henderson of Crawford county, candidate for re-nomination to the Superior Court bench, made a runaway race for one of the four nominations. Returns from less than one-third of the 67 counties where the primary vote of Tuesday has been officially counted give him nearly twice as many votes as his nearest rival, James Alcorn, former city solicitor of Philadelphia. Former State Senator Webster Grim of Bucks county is running third, as indicated by the vote in hand and the fourth place is a close race between Judge James M. Galbreath of Butler county and John W. Kephart of Cambria county. Judge Galbreath polled a heavy vote in the Western counties, while Kephart ran consistently in many of the Eastern counties and may forge ahead of Judge Galbreath on later returns.

GOOD ROADS MEETING HELD IN HARRISBURG

Governor Tener Makes Address to Men Gathered There From All Parts of State—In Interests of Bond Issue

The cause of good roads received a substantial boost yesterday when representative citizens from every section of Pennsylvania assembled at Harrisburg in a good roads convention. The meeting was held in the hall of the house of representatives and was in the interest of the proposed $50,000,000 bond issue.

Governor Tener welcomed the delegates and stated that in order to get the money it will not only be necessary for the voters to pass the amendment to the constitution at the November election, but the legislature of 1915 must also pass an enabling act, which will provide the rate of interest for the bonds, the manner in which they are to be issued and other accompanying details.

Instead of the bonds representing a great burden to carry the governor said that it has been figured out that about $18,000 or less than the automobile license receipts for two months would pay off the loan in 50 years if placed at two per cent interest compounded semi-annually. The chief address was made by Justice John P. Elkin, of the Pennsylvania supreme court, who argued for the adoption of the loan stating that it was the only practical way to build good roads for the benefit of the present generation. County committees were appointed to meet the campaign for the bond issue throughout the state, planning the holding of local meetings. The Monongahela valley was well represented at the meeting, there being delegations from Belle Vernon, Charleroi and Monaca, as well as from Donora, Monongahela and New Eagle.

Arrangements have already been made for meetings to be held September 20 and 30 at Washington and Monongahela respectively for the purpose of boosting the proposed bond issue. Other county meetings will be held in the near future.

BURGETTSTOWN FAIR THE NEXT IN THIS COUNTY

The plans for the 55th annual fair of the Union Agricultural Association of Burgettstown, are going along satisfactory and the details have all been practically completed. The dates for the event are September 22 and 23 and October 1 and 2. The Burgettstown fair is always a big attraction throughout the county and many from the valley are expected to attend.

WOMEN MISSION WORKERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church held its annual meeting Thursday at the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Stanley on Fallowfield avenue, and transacted the business incident to the closing of the year. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. E. G. Stanley; vice president, Mrs. Charles O. Frye; secretary, Mrs. Blanche Jacobs; treasurer, Mrs. J. Schafer. It was decided to take up the study of "China" during the ensuing year. The society has just finished up the study of a book on "Mormonism."

Much Social Attention
Miss Louise Austen of Monongahela, whose marriage to Dr. Leroy W. Hoon will be an event of October 8, is the recipient of much favor in her home town. The Queen Esther society of the Methodist Episcopal church tendered her a surprise shower at her home on Second street Thursday evening.

POLITICS TAKE NEW PHASE AT MONONGAHELA

Considerable of a stir has been caused in political circles in Monongahela by the announcement that A. R. Day who was defeated at the primaries on Tuesday for the office of alderman of the second ward of that place, will enter the race for the election, endorsed by the Washington and Prohibition parties. Mr. Day received the nomination on these tickets and was defeated for the Republican nomination by R. L. Elwood. The Democratic nominee is Thompson Nelder.

Both Mr. Elwood and Mr. Day are aldermen at the present time but the new act for third class cities abolishes one of these offices. It was thought that the real fight would be in the primaries, but since Mr. Day has received the endorsement of two parties he feels that he still has a chance to win.

The fact that the two men are so equal in every respect made it a difficult matter to pick the winner, but now that the field broadens to include the Democratic nominee, the fight is still more uncertain. Through the inevitable division this will cause in the Republican ranks the Democratic candidate is considerably strengthened and from this early date it looks like anybody's fight. The battle will be watched with interest all over the county.

PLEASANT SURPRISE PARTY FOR MISS LAUDERBAUGH

Miss C. Launderbaugh of Fallowfield avenue, was honor guest at a most delightful surprise party Wednesday evening. Games and music served to while away the pleasant hours and at the conclusion a four course collation was served. Guests were present from Monongahela, Braddock, and Pittsburgh. The Charleroi male quartette sang several numbers which added materially to the pleasant affair.

Tells Story
of Bad Fire

Charleroi Man Caught in Hotel Conflagration at Buffalo, N. Y.

There is evidence in a Buffalo hotel fire described by Harry Haddad, traveling salesman for the Halsey-Burns shoe company of Charleroi, N. Y. that it is at home a few days ago a new lot of samples, his sample case having been destroyed. The hotel that burned was the Broedel, in Buffalo, N. Y. The fire started in a nearby place, and the total loss was $125,000. The hotel was destroyed at a loss of $125,000. Mr. Haddad says the guests were awakened in the dead of night and told to flee. He says he seized what clothing he could and grabbing his grip containing other apparel, he hastened to the lobby of one hotel where he found people all dressed in nightgowns. Some of the women were hysterical and some of the male guests were half-dressed. No one was lost in the fire, although some had narrow escapes.

BUYS PROPERTY TO BE UTILIZED FOR EXTENSIONS

Washington Avenue Presbyterian Church Decides on Business Venture

At a congregational meeting held in the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening, following the prayer meeting hour, the matter of church surroundings was considered. Ever since the lot on the rear of the church was improved there has been a sentiment toward getting the ground adjoining the church facing Fifth street and the meeting was called to consider that project. After a statement had been made regarding the price for procuring the lot a vote was taken, and without a dissenting voice, it was decided to make that addition to the church property. An appeal for funds brought response and over $600.00 was subscribed in a few minutes. The lot is 20 feet front facing Fifth street and in the future if it becomes necessary to enlarge the building the church will have plenty of ground, since they also have 22 feet in the rear of the present church building.

Announcement.
The Ladies Aid of the Christ Lutheran church will hold a fancy work bazaar in the church, corner Sixth street and Washington avenue, December 4, 5, 6. 58-11

Contractors Engaged
Removing Obstructions
and Grading

TO CONSTRUCT CULVERT

Large Reinforced Concrete Affair to be Erected—Steam Shovel Work to Start

At present the other kinds of obstructions are being removed and grading is progressing on the streets of the highway leading from First street, McKean avenue, Charleroi, to the Twilight road in Speers. By the first of October the Foley Contracting company of Pittsburgh, which has the contract on the Speers section, will have a steam shovel on the road to hasten the grading. Hastings and Piper have the Charleroi end of the work to do. The Speers end of the road is the longest and the most important. In the contract held by the Foley company it is specified that 16,000 cubic yards of dirt is to be removed, but it is generally believed there will be less than this.

The culvert 54 feet long, 12 feet wide and 6 feet deep is to be constructed at O'Neil's, which is about midway between Charleroi and Speers, and work on it is beginning. At least a car of cement and two tons of steel reinforcement will be needed.

On the Charleroi or Speers end of the stretch of road the contract calls for completion by June 1 of next year. As much as possible of the work will be done this fall. It is anticipated that all grading will be done this fall on contract time. The Speers section is 1,850 feet or nearly a mile long. The Foley Contracting company has about 2,000 feet partly graded already, and they have been at work only a few days. Hastings and Piper are working on the Charleroi end of the road. The contract is a joint one awarded by the borough and the state. The state will pay for improving 17 feet, and the borough, the Pittsburgh Railways company and property holders owning property abutting on the street will pay for the rest of the paving—about 30 feet.

John N. O'Neil is the state inspector supervising the Charleroi end of the work.

BAD SCARE BUT LITTLE DAMAGE FROM EXPLOSION

When gas exploded at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Might, on McKean avenue Thursday afternoon, a bad scare was caused, but little damage was done. The explosion came from a stove where repairs had been made. Gas had been turned on and apparently a gas burner of the stove had been left open. The explosion was severe and was heard far away, but the stove was about all that was damaged. No one was hurt although the girl employed by Mr. and Mrs. Might was given a severe shock.

BOTTLED MILK AND GERMS.

Milk is put into bottles in order to keep it clean and free from germs.
Impure milk is responsible for most infant mortality and often for the spread of typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever and tuberculosis. Milk if properly bottled will reduce the danger from these diseases.

There are hundreds of milkmen,
however, who fill the bottles in their wagons instead of at the dairy, say the New Castle Herald. They hold the bottles over the milk can, thrust
the long dipper into the milk, and then pour the milk into the bottle allowing the excess milk to drain back over their hands—the same hands that have been holding the reins, taking care of the horse and accumulating all sorts of dirt.

What good does bottled milk do you if it is bottled in this way? You are then not only using bottled milk
but also bottled germs. Your baby sickens and dies. Your child shows a predisposition to tuberculosis—
and still in good faith, you receive improperly bottled milk and think that it is pure and clean.

Find out how your milkman bottles
his milk. No one wants to buy dirty milk and in proportion as the milk-
man's goods are high class, his customers will increase. Dirty milk means disease, clean milk means health. Which would you rather have?

PUBLIC OPINION

To the compelling force of public opinion says the New York Sun of recently enacted plays in New York City, not to any possibility of criminal prosecution, this town owes the elimination of brothel scenes from two plays that have recently attraced attention. The proprietors of these productions have not recovered before the law—such is the appropriate melodramatic phrase—but have discreetly consulted the community's sense of decency and adjusted their offerings to meet its requirements.

Their original judgment having proved to be at fault, they have lost
no time in repairing their error.

That they fell into a mistake is not cause for wonder. A flood of putrid stuff about profligacy has flowed from printing presses and
been spouted from platforms lately,
and it is not surprising that its apparent popularity should have misled men who must cater to the latest fashion or be left hopelessly behind.
It is possible that the exposure of their false conclusion may have a wholesome effect on others who now seem to think that because some men and women are vile and degraded all men and women and boys and girls
owe themselves a moral duty to play with vice and depravity. Our predecessors who held that some subjects had best be left for the specialist and shunned by the generality, were not wholly fools.

Should this prove to be the case it will be a matter for sincere congrat-ulation. Should the output of thinly disguised smut continue in undiminished quantity, intelligent men and women will still have the satisfaction of knowing that they remain in a majority, and that the contemplation of sewage interests a comparatively small portion of society.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

When the Republican county committee was holding its meeting at the county seat on Wednesday, a party of his friends undertook to have some fun at the expense of County Controller John H. Moffitt. As is known the controller is a Progressive from the word go, but regardless of this
he has many warm friends in the Republican ranks who always make it a point to see him on their trips to the county seat and to enjoy his peculiar sense of humor.

"Controller," one of them said,
"what has become of that party that
was headed by a man by the name of Roosevelt last fall?"

The controller knew that he was being joshed but he was equal to the occasion and striking a pose, dramatically replied:

"When the birds have migrated to the south, when the leaves have bared the trees and the chilly November winds whistle spitefully over the land, the Bull Moose will stride forth from the most inconspicuous places and root out 'Washingtonians'— through the county and state to such an extent that the poor old elephant will lose his footing and go sliding rapidly down the hill to who knows where?"

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Man has his price and woman her figure and both of them are uncertain.

The question is will all those candidates support the lucky fellow of their own party?

At this time when they are changing many features of the school system, it would be well to remember that what most of us need is a course in accrued silence.

Some of our residents who are a-
"set" in their ways should remember that you can't carve your way to success with a stone hatchet.

Some men who agree to office and take turn about on the various tickets, may agree with Shakespeare when he said "What's in a Name?"

AMONG THE THEATRES

PALACE—CHARLEROI

How a private fell in love with the daughter of the governor of the state and how love finally overcame practically unmountable obstacles was told in a thrilling picture drama at the Palace on Thursday night. The play, "For the Flag" was one of the leading features of the entire week's program. Among the other pictures of the week were "An Engineer's Conspiracy" an interesting Roman-American photoplay, and "Four Fools and a Maid," a ludicrous presentation of certain phases of life. Manager Barnhart is getting affairs in shape for the opening of vaudeville in a few days. He is announcing several special attractions for the season, and has made arrangements to review all acts before they come to Charleroi, reviews to be made at the Victoria and Harris theatres in Pittsburg.

COYLE—CHARLEROI

Scenes of the convention held recently by the B. P. O. Elks at Rochester, N. Y. were shown at the Coyle theatre on Thursday and as is usually the nature with a human interest picture of the kind, attracted much attention. The picture was one of the features of the week. A two-reel Victor film "The Heart of a Jewess" was likewise a feature of the week. "Soldier's Three" a story adapted from the wonderful novel of Kipling by the same name was exhibited as one of the headliners of the Wednesday night show. Other good moving picture dramas during the week were: "The Great Jewel Robbery," "Elizabeth," "Sally Scragg's Housemaid," "Fate's Vengeance," "Retribution of Yeobel" and "The Animal." A picture that is being announced is "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for next Thursday.

STAR—CHARLEROI

"To err is human" is a part of a famous proverb on which was built a most entertaining moving picture drama shown at the Star theatre on Wednesday night of this week. The production was one showing where a grievous mistake was made by a child, with the consequence that a near relative, one she loved dearly had to suffer. The picture was one of the better class teaching a good moral lesson. "Wheels of Destruction" showing an automobile race in which there occurred a wreck that was not started for moving picture sake, but which the moving picture man

NIXON—PITTSBURG

"A Good Little Devil," which is to have its first production at the Nixon Theatre, Pittsburg, the week commencing Oct. 13 is looked for with a somewhat keener anticipation than the usual yearly offering of David Belasco, inasmuch as the magnitude of the production only permits presentation in the large cities. "A Good Little Devil" is a play of international reputation. It is the work of Rosemond Gerard and Maurice Rostand, the wife and son of Edmond Rostand, the great Frenchman, who gave "Cyrano de Bergerac," "Chanticleer," "L'Aiglon" and the other great poetic dramas to the world.

LYRIC—CHARLEROI

One of the best known moving picture men in the world today is Augustus Craney, whose characterization of that noted breezy westerner, "Alkali Ike" is more famous than the man, was featured this week at the Lyric theatre in the picture, "Alkali Ike's Cal." The picture was one of those side-splitting comedies that Craney has made famous. With the general favorite Miss Alice Joyce playing the leading role in the society drama, "The Cloak of Guilt," a most attractive production was exhibited. Holding peculiar interest because of the scenic location, "Papita's Destiny," a Mexican play, drew marked interest. On Thursday Manager Pennman presented what was described as "a superb dramatic offering," "The Skeleton in the Closet," in which Carlyle Blackwell was featured. "Love's Quarantine," featuring John Bunny and Flora Finch was a good comedy picture.

ALVIN—PITTSBURG

A wholesome, breezy presence, a confiding and captivating smile, a rare sense of humor and the ability to convey it to others, a positive genius for singing and popularizing tuneful and timely songs with her exquisite diction and melodious voice are some of the reasons why Blanche Ring, who will be seen at the Alvin Theatre during the week of Sept. 22, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees in her new comedy with song, "When Claudia Smiles" is the successful and popular star that she is today. "When Claudia Smiles" written expressly for the cheerful comedienne by Anne Caldwell, author of "The Lady and the Slipper" gives Miss Ring the opportunity of portraying a constant character in a well devised and skillfully constructed play.

GRAND—PITTSBURG

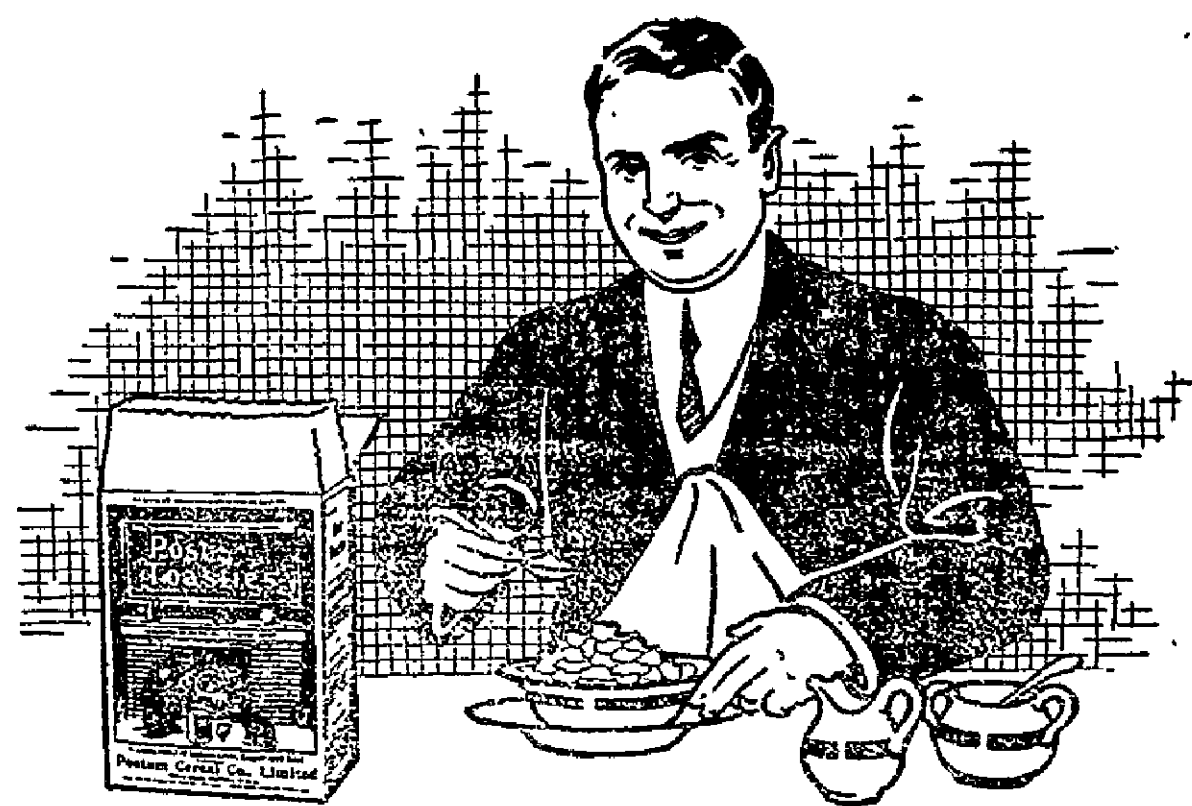

Quality as well as quantity distinguishes the program of refined vaudeville which Harry Davis promises patrons of the Grand Opera House each afternoon and evening during the week beginning next Monday, September 22. There are twelve acts in the bill. Among the best expressions of vaudeville's artistry is the Jesse L. Lasky production called "The Red Heads," which will be interpreted by a company of sixteen headed by James B. Carson, a favorite character dialect comedian who was featured in "The Red Petticoat" and the later Wintergarden shows and who supported Marie Cahill in "The Boys and Betty" and "Judy Forgot." The women of the act are a levy of very beautiful girls including Eleanor Sutter, an auburn-haired young ingenue who played the leading role in "The Girl From Paris" during its run in Chicago last season.

DUQUESNE—PITTSBURG

"The Master of the House," which will have its first presentation outside of New York city by the Harry Davis players at the Duquesne theatre, Pittsburg next week, twice daily beginning with matinee Monday, Sept. 22, is adapted from the German by Edgar James. An elderly merchant who has retired from business grows cold at the even tenor of his household, and the even temper of his serviceable, unemphatic wife. A pretty young woman named Bettina is engaged to help the aging wife in the daily duties of the household, and this penniless adventuress proceeds to make both the merchant and his son fall in love with her. The merchant divorces the faithful wife, and marries the adventuress. His life with her turns out to be a continuous round of discomfort and annoyance. Finally in a violent outburst he denounces and discards her. Then the broken and repentant husband returns with tears and is forgiven by his rejected wife and daughter.

DEVELOPMENT ROAD SYSTEM

Material Interests of State Benefited by Good Roads

"THE PEOPLE ARE THE STATE"

Good Roads Will Repopulate Abandoned Farms, and Bring Prosperity to All Pennsylvania.

"The people are the State." What ever affects one is the concern of all, in that larger equation that considers the general welfare. The prosperity of any special class adds to the general prosperity. An advantage extended to any line of industry is an advantage, not only to the community where that industry is located, but to that assemblage of communities which constitute a commonwealth.

To repopulate the seven thousand abandoned farms in Pennsylvania, not only to the material interests, but to the counties and townships in which those farms are located, but of the State as a whole. The return or replacement of the 100,000 people to the 22 counties whose population shrunk by that number between 1890 and 1900, and of the 32,000 people to 19 counties the population of which decreased to that extent between 1900 and 1910, will not only mean a larger local production and consequent increased local business activity, but will also be indicated in the greater figures of the general welfare of the State.

Properly cultivated, and with proper facilities for marketing, there is no more productive state in the Union than Pennsylvania. With its large cities, its mines, and its extensive industrial and manufacturing interests the demand for food products from the farms is insistent and constantly growing. All that is needed to bring the producer and consumer together to the great profit of both, is a ready means for the transportation of the products. That means can only be provided by improved highways over which it will not cost so large a percentage of the value of the produce as is now the case to transport it from the place of its growth to the place of consumption.

The area of farming land in Pennsylvania which can profitably be devoted to market gardening may be trebled or quadrupled when the roads are improved with a hard surface and with easy grades; and market gardening is away and by far the most profitable use to which farm land can be put; and land that is available for such use is invariably saleable at a much higher price than that which, by reason of the inaccessibility of markets, must be devoted to other purposes.

A close study of conditions in Pennsylvania, and of results achieved in other states, indicates that the increase in value of property caused by the improvement of a road will amount to twenty-five dollars an acre for a distance of a half mile each side of the road so improved. There are ten thousand miles in the State Road system, and by the time that is completed there will be ten thousand miles of State Aid county roads also built, making a total, not counting state aid township roads, of twenty thousand miles of well graded, drained, hard surfaced roads.

A strip of land half a mile wide along each side of these roads would make a total of twelve million, eight hundred thousand acres; and the increase in selling value, at $25 per acre, will amount to the enormous sum of three hundred and twenty millions of dollars. And the land will well be worth the increase, by reason of the greater opportunities for profitable production and cheaper marketing. Lands further from the main highways will also greatly increase in value, according to the distance and the improvement of the township roads.

The scenery in the mountains and hilly regions of Pennsylvania is unsurpassed. Wherever it has been advertised or exploited, as has been done by some railway companies, it has attracted attention throughout the civilized world, wherever railway advertisements reach, and that is nearly everywhere. But for every single scene that has ever been photographed and exploited there are thousands equally fine which have never seen the lens of a camera, and are unknown to fame. There are trout streams, and waterfalls, and forests, and rocky ledges, and canyons, and all the other wild and picturesque elements which are restful to tired denizens of cities, who seek solace in summer in sylvan shades.

Increasingly, year by year, the people of the cities who can afford to do so get out for a season into the hills and mountains of recreation and rest. They buy land, in large or small tracts as their means and inclinations suggest; they build summer homes; some large and pretentious; some quiet and modest; some bungalows, and some of the shack or log cabin order. And some carry tents, and make camps in which to recuperate for the arduous duties they must soon resume. Other thousands go where they can find summer hotels, and boarding houses which are within their means. There can be no finer locations for such summer homes and summer resorts than in the mountains of Pennsylvania, where the elevation is such that the nights are always cool, where the water is always sparkling and pure, where the air is fresh and invigorating. And all that is needed to bring the people to these mountains is a system of improved roads over which they can travel in comfort, and enterprising real estate men, and hotel men and others experienced in catering to this special class will do the rest, and make local markets for farm products in the deepest recesses of the hills and mountains.

Millions of dollars of Pennsylvania money is spent every summer by those who go from this state to the mountains of New England or to the Adirondacks, or Catskills, or elsewhere. Those states have built roads looking particularly to the comfort and convenience and encouragement of this class of people, and have profited greatly thereby.

With improved roads reaching into and through these sections of Pennsylvania, as the State Road system does reach, only waiting improvement, not only will thousands of Pennsylvanians take advantage of the opportunities presented, but other thousands, from other large cities in surrounding states, will also be attracted and the people and state will profit enormously.

These and many other planes of development are open to the people of the State of Pennsylvania by the building of good roads throughout the state. And the people will vote for or against the measure which will accomplish these results at the November election.

NO TIME TO KNOCK.

This is not the time for the friends or enemies of any administration to attempt to "get even" for any real or fancied grievance by standing in the path of progress. Under different administrations the work of road building must go on, as provided by law. There will be other administrations, and if one does not suit the people it can be changed two years afterward. But the work of building the roads should not be interrupted. Every interest in the State, agricultural, commercial, social, educational, demands that highway construction continue until the State and State Aid road systems are finished.

Unless the amendment to the constitution authorizing the bond issue be carried at the coming election road construction in the State will progress very slowly. Work on the State Road System had to stop on August 1 of this year because of the inadequacy of the appropriations. To relieve the situation, and make such conditions impossible in the future, all parties and interests should work together for the amendment.

Only by carrying the bond proposition at the coming election can the work of completing the State and State Aid road systems go forward. And the building of these roads means much to every resident of the State. It means for the farmer an improved road from his farm, or near it, to his county seat or other market-point; it means additional facilities for village and city merchants in the distribution of goods; it means for every class increased advantages, increased prosperity and comfort.

SHALL OUR PROGRESS CONTINUE

Road Improvement in Pennsylvania is the Next Step Forward.

It is within the memory of Pennsylvanians not yet too old for active and progressive work, when there were no typewriting machines; no telephones; no electric lights; and when letter postage was three cents for a half ounce. They have seen the revolution in commercial and social affairs brought about by the installation of these facilities. Now we have the Rural Free Delivery and the automobile truck, with the auto-bus lines making their appearance to the end that mankind may be happier, more prosperous, and better. It is all in the line of human development; the growth of ideas, of ideals, and of morals.

The roads of Pennsylvania must keep pace with the general development. The longer their improvement is delayed the more remote becomes the prosperity which is due the state and the people.

A vote for good roads at the coming election is a vote for progress, for prosperity, for the well being of the state as a whole, and of every individual within it.

Let no one be sidetracked by any side issue. If good roads are defeated this year it will take practically five years to get the proposition again before the people. There is no other issue. He who is in favor of Good Roads will vote for good roads.

The improvement of the roads of Pennsylvania depends on the votes of the people of the State in November. It is inconceivable that persons of intelligence should fail to be in favor of the proposition.

Carrying the constitutional amendment does not create a debt. It only gives the right to create one to get funds to build roads with, if the Legislature of 1915 and subsequent legislatures think best to do so. Through our system of electing a new legislature every two years the people have continued control of the debt proposition.

The building of the roads comprising the Sprout State Road System is essential to the welfare of the State as a whole, and to the people of every section of the State.

told his story simply without any apparent attempt at concealment. He had been in Pittsburgh a week before he met the stranger who came here with him. He says he does not even know the stranger's name. Harvey's original home was in Hartford, Conn.

Manager White discovered the robbery this morning when he opened the store. His desk had been broken open, but nothing taken from it. Only a trifling amount of money was available, lying by Mr. White's desk, but it was missed entirely.

STORE ENTERED; FORMER MANAGER ADMITS GUILT

Would-be Burglars Operate at McCrorey Five and Ten

In what was partly an effort to secure money for the five and ten cent store of J. G. McCrorey and Co., in the Night building on Fifth street was entered Thursday night. A watch was taken and that was all. Today Langston, in the borough lockup is H. D. Harvey, the first manager of the local McCrorey store. Another man who furnished the key to the criminal was also arrested according to Harvey help out in the store was done, left town just a short time before a midnight. Harvey was arrested shortly after midnight. The man who furnished the key to the store was also arrested. The man who furnished the key to the store was also arrested.

Harvey's arrest is a deadly blow to the store. When he was transferred from Charleroi some months after the store had been opened, he had been used here. One of them was for a back door opening from the alley. In August, Mr. Harvey left the J. G. McCrorey company. Since that time he had been looking for employment without success.

Thursday in Pittsburgh he was waiting at the Pittsburgh Employment Bureau for something to turn up, when in came a man. They had seats together, and in some way the talk drifted towards a means of getting some money. Harvey had left a wife and child in Dunbar and they were in need. The man had some money, so it was arranged that they would come to Charleroi to enter and rob the local five and ten cent store. He agreed to pay Harvey's way. They traveled to Monaca and then late in the evening came to Charleroi. They watched until Manager F. D. White and Mrs. White left the store at about 10:30 o'clock the door went to the back, unlocked the door and went in. Not finding a thing but Mr. White's watch, they departed. The stranger left but refused to pay Harvey's way out of town, evidently on the assumption that Harvey had engineered a bad deal.

Harvey kept the watch. That was about all there was to tell, except that Harvey was arrested and practically forced into a confession by the array of evidence against him. He had the watch, and that helped towards his undoing.

What action will be taken remains to be learned. Manager White of the store has taken up the matter of procedure with the firm at New York city and upon their instructions will hinge his action. It is likely that information will be made against Harvey.

Harvey says it is the first time he has been in trouble of the kind. He

Egg is 25 Years Old

Charleroi Man Has Unique Object—Shows No Sign of Infirmary

A hen egg 25 years old and showing no evidences of infirmity is an unique object possessed by John W. Scholte, of Seventh street and McKean avenue. The egg, which he has kept for 25 years, is now 25 years old and shows no signs of infirmity. He prizes it in much the same sense that another man would prize an heirloom and will keep the egg in the present condition as long as the egg betokens a willingness to be kept. The egg being an Easter egg is painted. Whether that served any purpose in man's mind in a particular state of preservation or not is not known, but the fact that the egg has withstood the ravages of 25 years is unusual.

Meadville Man Leads in State Vote for Superior Court—Heavy Vote Cast

As a result of the many local fights at the primaries Tuesday and the subsequent hurry to get the vote announced for these offices the important question of candidates to the Superior court were sidetracked. This makes it impossible to yet tell who received the nominations.

Judge John J. Henderson of Crawford county, candidate for re-nomination to the Superior Court bench, made a runaway race for one of the four nominations. Returns from less than one-third of the 67 counties where the primary vote of Tuesday has been officially counted give him nearly twice as many votes as his nearest rival, James Alcorn, former city solicitor of Philadelphia.

Former State Senator Webster Grim of Bucks county is running third, as indicated by the vote in hand and the fourth place is a close race between Judge James M. Galbreath of Butler county and John W. Kephart of Cambria county. Judge Galbreath polled a heavy vote in the Western counties, while Kephart ran consistently in many of the Eastern counties and may forge ahead of Judge Galbreath on later returns.

Governor Tener Makes Address to Men Gathered There From All Parts of State—In Interests of Bond Issue

The cause of good roads received a substantial boost yesterday when representative delegates from every section of Pennsylvania assembled at the Harrisburg meeting. The meeting was held in the hall of the house of representatives and was in the interest of the proposed $50,000,000 bond issue.

Governor Tener welcomed the delegates and stated that in order to get the money it will not only be necessary to pass the bond issue but also to amend the constitution at the November election, but the legislature of 1915 must also pass an enabling act which will provide the rate of interest for the bonds, the manner in which they are to be issued and other accompanying details.

Instead of the bond representing a great burden to carry the governor said that it has been secured out that about $50,000 or less than the automobile license receipts for two months would pay the loan in 50 months.

WOMEN MISSION WORKERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Frye; secretary, Mrs. Blanche Jacobs; treasurer, Mrs. J. Schafer. It was decided to take up the study of "China" during the ensuing year. At a congregational meeting held at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening, following the prayer meeting hour, the matter of church surroundings was considered. Ever since the lot on the rear of the church was improved there has been a sentiment toward getting the ground adjoining the church facing Fifth street and the meeting was called to consider that project. After a statement had been made regarding the price for procuring the lot a vote was taken, and without a dissenting voice, it was decided to make that addition to the church property. An appeal for funds brought response and over $600.00 was subscribed in a few minutes. The lot is 20 feet front facing Fifth street and in the future if it becomes necessary to enlarge the building the church will have plenty of ground, since they also have 22 feet in the rear of the present church building.

BAD SCORE BUT LITTLE DAMAGE FROM EXPLOSION

When gas exploded at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Might, on McKean avenue Thursday afternoon, a bad score was caused, but little damage was done. The explosion came from a stove where repairs had been made. Gas had been turned on and apparently a gas burner of the stove had been left open. The explosion was severe and was heard far away, but the stove was about all that was damaged. No one was hurt although the girl employed by Mr. and Mrs. Might was given a severe shock.

Milk is put into bottles in order to keep it clean and free from germs.
Impure milk is responsible for most
infant mortality and often for the
spread of typhoid fever, diphtheria,
scarlet fever and tuberculosis. Milk
if properly bottled will reduce the
danger from these diseases.
There are hundreds of milkmen,
however, who fill the bottles in their wagons instead of at the dairy, says
the New Castle Herald. They hold
the bottles over the milk can, thrust
the long dipper into the milk, and
then pour the milk into the bottle
allowing the excess milk to drain back
over their hands—the same hands
that have been holding the reins, taking care of the horse and accumulating all sorts of dirt.
What good does bottled milk do
you if it is bottled in this way? You
are then not only using bottled milk
but also bottled germs. Your baby
sickens and dies. Your child shows
a predisposition to tuberculosis—
and still in good faith, you receive improperly bottled milk and think that it is pure and clean.

Find out how your milkman bottles
his milk. No one wants to buy dirty
milk and in proportion as the milk-
man's goods are high class, his customers will increase. Dirty milk
means disease, clean milk means
health. Which would you rather have?

the law"—such is the appropriate, melodramatic phrase—but have discreetly consulted the community's
sense of decency and adjusted their
offerings to meet its requirements.
Their original judgment having
proved to be at fault, they have lost
no time in repairing their error.

That they fell into a mistake is
not cause for wonder. A flood of putrid stuff about profrigacy has flowed from printing presses and
been spouted from platforms lately,
and it is not surprising that its apparent popularity made some misled men who must cater to the latest
fashion or be left hopelessly behind.
It is possible that the exposure of
their false conclusion may have a wholesome effect on others who now
seem to think that because some men
and women are vile and degraded all
men and women and boys and girls
owe themselves a moral duty to play
with vice and depravity. Our predecessors who held that some subjects had best be left to the specialist are humbled by the generality, were not woolly fools.

Should this prove to be the case it will be a matter for regret. Indeed, should the output of thinly disguised smut continue in undiminished quantity, intelligent men and
of knowing that they remain in a majority, and that the contemplation of
sewage interests a comparatively
small portion of society.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

When the Republican county committee was holding its meeting at the county seat on Wednesday, a party of
his friends undertook to have some
fun at the expense of County Controller John W. Moffitt. As is known, the controller is a Progressive from
the word go, but regardless of this
he has many warm friends in the Republican ranks who always make it a point to see him on their trips to the county seat and to enjoy his peculiar
sense of humor.

"Controller," one of them said,
"what has become of that party that
was headed by a man by the name of Roosevelt last fall?"

The controller knew that he was
occasion and striking a pose, dramatically replied:

"When the birds have migrated to the south, when the leaves have fallen and the cold November winds whistle spitefully over the land, the Bull Moose will stride forth from the most conspicuous places
and root out Washingtonians
through the county and state to such an extent that the poor old elephant
will lose his footing and go sliding rapidly down the hill to who knows where?"

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Man has his price and woman her
figure and both of them are uncertain.

The question is will all those card-dates support the lucky fellow of their own party?

At this time when they are changing many features of the school system, it would be well to remember
that what most of us need is a course
in accrued silence.

Some of our residents who are so
"set" in their ways should remember
that you can't carve your way to success with a stone hatchet.

Some men who aspire to office and ets must agree with Shakespeare
